BILL: House Bill 1233
TITLE: Education – Administration of Standardized Tests and Assessments
DATE: March 3, 2016
POSITION: OPPOSE
COMMITTEE: Ways and Means

House Bill 1233 requires county boards of education to provide parents and guardians, via e-mail, information regarding the subject area, date range, intended use of results, anticipated time for receipt of results, cost of implementation, and whether the test and assessment are local, State, or federally mandated on or before the first day of an academic quarter during which a test and assessment will be administered; requires the State Superintendent of Schools to create a model by which these requirements may be met.

PSSAM opposes House Bill 1233. We strongly believe that it is critical that locally-governed education policies and procedures remain under the authority of local boards of education. Each local school board must have the flexibility to develop individual assessment policies and practices that reflect the specific and diverse needs of their system.

House Bill 1233 would place a heavy administrative burden on school systems. The sheer volume of information necessitated by this bill is overly prescriptive and could lead to the ill-intended consequence of overwhelming parents with the vast array of testing details. It is also important to note that much has been happening on the issue of testing.

Last year's 2015 legislative session passed House Bill 452, creating the Commission to Review the Use of Assessments and Testing in Maryland Public Schools. The legislation required the Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE) to conduct a statewide survey to identify local, state, and federally-mandated assessments by August 2015. The recently released report, MSDE's Report on Local, State and Federally Mandated Assessments in Maryland, contains more than 300 pages with input from all twenty-four school systems. It provided local superintendents the opportunity to receive additional information about the assessments given and how the data is used in other districts.

PSSAM states that the MSDE assessment report is valuable and provides a wealth of data. The next step is for the Commission to hold several additional meetings and issue their final report by July 1, 2016. The report will make recommendations on how local school systems and MSDE can improve the process regarding the administration of local, state, and federally mandated assessments.

PSSAM believes that House Bill 1233, although well-intentioned, is ill-timed. A better course of action would be to allow the current Commission to complete their legislated charge and release their findings before additional legislation is enacted. PSSAM will continue to advocate for local board of education governance of teaching and learning as well as the assessments used to measure student learning. However, we await the Commission's report and will work collaboratively to benefit all Maryland students.

For the reasons stated above, PSSAM OPPOSES HB 1233 and requests an unfavorable committee report.
